MENS' SPRING CLOTHING WE ARE PROUD OF.

Hints about the best and coolest Summer Clothes.

It is often a difficult matter to select clothing which will be cool and at the same time serviceable. Often times the thin fabric which readily lets the air through will not have the wearing quality you could desire. But this season's fashions dictate the hard finished worsteds as the right thing for well dressed men to wear and we have taken advantage of this fact and are showing suits in unlimited variety of patterns, all made of material which we can fully guarantee the wear of and which are positively the coolest material obtainable. They are all tailored in such a manner that they will retain their shape in every way. We guarantee all of our suits in this particular, and this quality alone should be worth the price of the suit. Your attention is directed to our $15, $18 and $20 Suits.

These are all the perfect fitting kind which have already begun to bring forth unstinted praise for our Clothing Department.

FROM NEARBY TOWNS.

OHIOPOLE.

Notes from the Little Mountain Resort Up the Yough.

Ohiopole, May 19.—Mrs. S. B. C. Kertz and two daughters, Helen and Egan, of South Carolina, and Mrs. Jacob Rush of Ursina were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Conway, Monday and Tuesday, leaving for Ursina on train No. 15 Tuesday evening.

The following people of our metropolis were in Connellsville Wednesday to see Robinson's circus: Jesse McFarland, James Cunningham, Levi Gales, Harry Daniels, Charles Daniels, William McFarland and A. J. Colborn. A. P. Daniels is now ready to accommodate customers at his new place of business in the Livingston block on Bridge street. The citizens of East Ohiopole were sorry to see him leave their midst as his new place of business is on the opposite of the Yough river from them, but they will still continue to patronize him as often as possible. Mr. Daniels is one of our leading grocers having been in the business for several years in the Clark building on Sherman street in East Ohiopole and always treated his customers with respect and will still continue to do so.

Miss Bell Moon is ill at her home on Sherman street at this place.

Thomas McKeehan, our leading photographer, who has been away for several weeks on business, has returned to his place of business on Main street.

J. A. Jeffries is building a new fence around his property in North Ohiopole.

H. T. Holt is spending a few days in Pittsburg on business.

J. Eazy, travelling salesman for the Lantham Rubber Company, of Baltimore, Md., arrived here on train No. 16 yesterday.

Frank Bailey received a bad cut on his right cheek Tuesday at about 8 P. M. while working in G. W. Moon's mill. While turning rollers a roller became detached from the lathe and in its upward flight encountered Bailey's face. The wound was dressed by Dr. A. J. Colborn, three stitches being required to close it.

Read The Daily Courier and learn all about the happenings of Ohiopole and vicinity. Only one cent a copy, or six cents per week.

J. W. Holt & Sons received a large consignment of goods yesterday.

The floor in the bridge which spans the mighty Yough at this place should be looked after at once by the proper authorities as it is fast becoming a menace to life and limb.

D. P. Collins, who lately sold out his blacksmith shop to Ewing Kennedy and John Stewart, has now started a livery and feed stable. We hope him success.

All those from this place who were present at Robinson's circus which exhibited at Connellsville Wednesday pronounced it the finest they had ever seen. Nothing billed that did not appear except the circus. The rain was not billed, but is appeared any way. The Yough river is once more looking fierce, which has put to flight the long cherished hopes of the anglers, for awhile at least.

CONFLUENCE.

Interesting Items From Somerset County's Hustling Town.

Connellsville, May 19.—The First National Bank of Confluence has taken advantage of the present low price of United States two per cent. bonds by purchasing $5,000 of these bonds. The bank is increasing its circulation, through this purchase, from $10,000 to $15,000. The new National bank notes for the $5,000 were shipped from the treasury department on Tuesday and received at the bank on Wednesday. The bank has anticipated this decline in price of United States bonds and has had its order for the purchase of these bonds with its New York correspondent for several months.

Messrs. Miller and McGillem, teachers of the new and rapid process of oil painting, have just opened their studio in the Bird store room.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

Wonderful Success of Dr. Howard's Dyspepsia Specific's Half Price Offer.

J. C. Moore, the popular druggist, who introduced in Connellsville Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia with such wonderful success, says that he is hearing from druggists in other parts of the country, where the plan that he urged the Dr. Howard Co. to adopt (introducing their specific by selling at half price) had been followed.

Mr. Moore showed The Courier man a letter he recently received from C. S. Ingraham of Elmira, one of the best known druggists in New York State. Mr. Ingraham writes: "I have never undertaken the introduction of a new remedy with such satisfactory results, both to myself and to my trade. My average sales have been nearly a hundred bottles per week, and I have every reason to think this will be doubled within a short time."

"The specific gives remarkable results in the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia and constipation, and although every package has been sold under my personal guarantee to refund the money if it did not give satisfaction, not one has been returned."

GIVEN TO THE SICK ON TRIAL.

A. A. Clark's Generous Offer—Hymel Treatment Costs Nothing Unless It Cures Catarrh.

Many who are in need of Hymel, the treatment that cures catarrh without stomach dosing, have not yet realized its wonderful healing powers. He wants everyone who is troubled with catarrh or catarrhal colds, to get a Hymel out, from him with the understanding that it is absolutely free unless it cures catarrh and frees the system from germs of grippe and influenza.

The first day's use of Hymel will show by its exhilarating and vitalizing effects that it is doing good. Use it for a full month entirely at A. A. Clark's risk. If at the end of thirty days, you can say that Hymel has not helped you, he will return your money without question or argument.

The complete Hymel treatment costs but one dollar, and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the pocket or purse, a medicine dropper, and a bottle of Hymel. The inhaler will last a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh and the only one where you can obtain a month's treatment from year local druggist that costs nothing if it fails to cure.

Try Hymel for a month. It cannot harm you, as it is purely vegetable, and cures catarrh without any stomach dosing. If it fails, the loss fall entirely upon Mr. Clark.

We have included our entire line of room-size rugs and ingrain carpets in this sale, in fact all the line connected with our carpet department. Dunbar, May 20.—Rose Kimball, who has been a student at the Uniontown High School during the past term, has accepted a position in the National Bank of Fayette County at Uniontown. Rose is a very bright young man and he took very high in his class. As Rose has had considerable experience in the banking business helping his father in the Dunbar bank, he will make a very efficient employee. As is the custom of the Ladies of the Home and Foreign Missionary Society to meet at the homes of the members, as arranged at the first of the year, they went to Connellville yesterday to the home of Mrs. William Dull, who although having moved from Dunbar, still remains a member of this society. They found everything in readiness to receive them. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers. There were 55 ladies present. The subject for their consideration was "Foreigners, Slaves and Leagues."

Mrs. Gray sang a solo during the meeting which was well rendered. After the business of the meeting was over refreshments were served, consisting of ice cream, cake and many other delicious dishes. The ladies from here arrived home about five o'clock and they all spoke very highly of the manner in which the society had been entertained by both Mr. and Mrs. Dull.

The Pope Cement & Brick Company were not able to put their new crusher in operation when they expected, but if nothing interferes they will be ready to start not later than the first of next week. The members of the firm are very anxious to get their plant in operation, as they have a number of orders awaiting shipment. The crushers will have a capacity of 60 tons per hour when running in full. A number of the head officials and stockholders will be present to see the new machinery set in operation.

SOFT COAL SLUMP.

Operators in Central Pennsylvania Have Trouble in Selling Product.

The slump in the bituminous coal market, which began a month ago, is the worst the Central Pennsylvania field has experienced in five years. One of the most prominent operators in the field said: "Almost all the operators are now having trouble in disposing of coal at tide-water or the other large consuming markets of the east. There are at the present time not less than 2,000 cars of coal belonging to the different companies standing on sidings in the Eastern cities and at tide-water, waiting for a purchaser. The coal has been loaded on the cars only for the purpose of using the allotment of cars to the various operators by the Pennsylvania railroad. The coal companies fear that if they fail to take their cars the railroad company will withdraw them, and when they are almost needed by the shippers they will be unable to get them. The Pennsylvania company has within the last few days notified the soft coal shippers not to load coal on the cars unless prepared to sell the same."

Here Commission Meeting. The first meeting of the Andrew Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, which was recently appointed by Mr. Carnegie, will be held in the Board rooms of the Carnegie Steel Company, on the eleventh floor of the Carnegie building, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The date of the meeting was definitely postponed yesterday afternoon by President Charles L. Taylor and Secretary Frank M. Wilmore, and the notices of the meeting were sent to the members of the commission.

IN LEGAL CIRCLES.

Divorce Recommended by Master for Rebecca Golden of Uniontown. Attorney T. E. Jones, appointed master, to take testimony in the case of Rebecca Golden against John Golden for divorce, has filed his report recommending that the decree be granted.

The testimony shows that the parties were married at New Haven, September 23, 1892, and lived in Connellsville and New Haven until December 8, 1902, when the respondent willfully deserted her and has remained away since that time. The libellant has been a citizen of this state for one year previous to the filing of this libel. From the testimony it also appears, the report says, that the respondent is a man largely given to the drink habit, was almost continually under the influence of strong drink, and never attended to domestic duties, such as paying the rent for their home, or providing food and clothing for his wife. It seems that this state of affairs continued during the entire period of their cohabitation and the wife was obliged to support herself by manual labor, and during a part of the time the respondent did not even provide a home for her. The master concludes that the respondent was a man of dissolute habits and the desertion was a result of an inclination to be rid of one too decent and industrious to be a congenial companion, and therefore recommends a divorce. The libellant is a resident of Uniontown, but the whereabouts of the respondent are unknown. Harry A. Cohen was attorney for the libellant. The will of the late Mary E. Gibbons of New Haven was admitted to probate Thursday. After payment of all just debts the property which she occupied at the time of her death is bequeathed to her two sons, John and Earl Gibbons. This property consists of a house and lot on Third street, New Haven. Her other personal effects and money due after expenses are paid is to be divided equally among five heirs, as follows: Stella Stillwagon, Minnie Coyne, Daisy Kennedy, John Gibbons and Earl Gibbons. The will was made April 16, 1904, and signed in the presence of J. M. Keister, G. W. Gallagher and Mrs. Catherine Berger.

PUBLIC MEETING CALLED.

Desire Everyone to Cooperate in Fort Necessity Celebration.

The movement to have a great celebration of the sesquicentennial of Fort Necessity on the site of the historic fort on July 4, 1904, is taking definite shape and the committee of Fort Necessity Lodge of Odd Fellows which has the affair in charge called a public meeting of all the citizens of Uniontown and any others who may be interested, for Thursday night of this week at the Old Fellows' Hall in the Hinkins & Hoppert building, Uniontown.

A great deal of interest is already being taken in the proposed celebration, and the committee feels that if the people of Uniontown do their part and push the movement, the celebration of the American Revolution and many patriotic individuals of Pittsburgh will cordially support the movement and help make the celebration one of the greatest of its kind ever held in Fayette county, which abounds in so many places of historical interest.

Passenger Train Popular. The new passenger train installed Sunday on the Somerset & Cambria branch has already met with public favor and promises to prove popular with all patrons of the road, inasmuch as it permits people from the south of the county to arrive at Somerset and return home the same evening. It also provides means for Somerset county people to reach Johnstown at 9 o'clock in the morning and to return home the same evening. The train is scheduled to depart from Meyersdale every morning at about 6:30, arriving at Somerset at 7:40 and Johnstown at 9 o'clock. Returning the train departs from Johnstown at 5 o'clock in the evening, arriving at Somerset at 7:45 and at Meyersdale in time to connect with the B. & O. east bound Duquesne Limited.

Increased 2,000,000. Since the Legislative apportionment the population of Pennsylvania has increased 2,000,000, or more than the total population of such States as Alabama, Kansas, Louisiana, Maryland, Nebraska, New Jersey, North Carolina and Virginia.

MORE BISHOPS CHOSEN.

McDowell, Spellmeyer and Bashford Elected by Methodists.

Los Angeles, May 20.—Three additional bishops were elected at the Methodist general conference, Dr. W. F. McDowell and Dr. Henry Spellmeyer on the second ballot, which was announced at the morning session, and Dr. J. W. Bashford, chosen on the fourth ballot, late in the afternoon. The third ballot resulted in no election.

Four of the eight bishops to be elected have thus far been chosen as follows: Dr. J. E. Berry, Chicago; Dr. Henry Spellmeyer, Newark, N. J.; Dr. William F. McDowell, New York; Dr. James W. Bashford, Delaware, Ohio.

The fourth ballot, which was announced late in the afternoon and which resulted in the election of Dr. Bashford, presented Dr. William Burt and Dr. T. B. Neely at the head of the list in the order named with 460 and 440 votes respectively. Dr. R. J. Cook had 394; Dr. L. B. Wilson, 345; Dr. J. W. Bowen (colored), 253; Dr. H. C. Jennings, 203; Dr. E. W. Dyer, 196; George P. Eckman, 137; Dr. G. H. Buchtel, 31; Dr. Q. F. Boyard, 14 and Dr. Robert McIntyre, 11. Several other candidates received small complimentary votes.

The fifth ballot was taken before adjournment and as a result it is reasonable to expect that Dr. William Burt is elected as the fifth bishop and perhaps Dr. T. B. Neely a sixth. Dr. Bowen's loss of 18 votes on the fourth ballot is thought to be an indication that he is out of the running, but it does not necessarily affect his candidacy for missionary bishop.

The conference instructed the Episcopacy committee to consider the question of missionary bishops to be elected and to report to the conference.

TAKING THE WIRES OUT.

New York Poolrooms Are Deprived of Race News Service.

New York, May 20.—President Cleary of the Western Union Telegraph company has ordered the removal of all Western Union wires running to places supposed to be pool rooms. He said he had issued directions to the company's workmen to remove every wire over which horse racing news exclusively had formerly been furnished to private subscribers and to turn in every instrument used in this service.

The pool rooms are now likely to be thrown entirely on their own resources for the police commissioner has announced that the New York telephone company has agreed to cooperate with him in stripping the pool rooms of their wires.

It was said that the men who operate the larger pool rooms are forming a company to obtain for themselves the news they need.

SNEAK THIEF RELEASES.

His Fellow Prisoner. Monroe, Wis., May 20.—W. F. Cleveland, a sneak thief, released after serving a short term in the county jail, returned to the jail and placing a chloroform saturated handkerchief to the face of Mrs. John Gardner, wife of the sheriff, threatened to kill her if she did not give him the key. He then released Henry Jacobson, held for forgery, both escaping, it is believed, in an auto car.

"And I repeat it, sir."
"Then why did you immediately go to Mr. Jeffrey's drawer, where you could have no business, unless it was to see if she had taken his pistol with her?"

Miss Tuttle's head fell, and a soft flush broke through the pallor of her cheek.

"Because I was thinking of him; because I was worried for him. He had left the house the morning before in a half-maddened condition and had not come back to sleep or eat since. I did not know what a man so outraged in every sacred feeling of love and honor might be tempted to do. I thought of suicide. I remembered the old house and how he had said: 'I don't believe here, I don't believe here ever did so cold blooded an act or that any such dreadful machinery is in that house. I never shall believe it till I have seen and handled it myself. It is a nightmare, Cora. We are insane.' I thought of this, and when I went into her room to change the place of the little note in the book I went to his bureau drawer not to look for the pistol—I did not think of that then—but to see if the keys of the Moore house were still there. I knew that they were kept in this drawer, for I had been present in the room when they were brought in after the wedding. I had also been short-sighted enough to conclude that if they were gone it was he who had taken them. They were gone, and that was why I flew immediately from the house to the old place in Waverley avenue. I was concerned for Mr. Jeffrey. I feared to find him there, demoralized or dead."

"But you had no key?"
"No; Mr. Jeffrey had taken one of them and my sister the other, but the lack of a key or even of a light, for the missing candles were not taken by me [we afterward found that these candles were never delivered at the house at all; that they had been placed in the wrong basket and left in a neighboring kitchen], could not keep me at home after I was once convinced that he had gone to this dreadful house. If I could not get in I could at least hammer at the door or rouse the neighbors. Something must be done. I did not think what I merely flew."

"Did you know that the house had two keys?"
"Not then."
"But your sister did?"
"Probably."
"And finding the only key, as you supposed, gone, you flew to the Moore house?"
"Immediately."
"And now what else?"
"I found the door unlocked."
"That was done by Mrs. Jeffrey?"
"Yes, but I did not think of her then."
"And you went in?"
"Yes; it was all dark, but I felt my way till I came to the gilded pillars."
"Why did you go there?"
"Because I felt I knew—if he were anywhere in that house he would be there!"

"And why did you stop?"
"Her voice rose above its usual quiet pitch in shrill protest."
"You know I know! I heard a pistol shot from within, then a fall. I don't remember anything else. They say I went wandering about town. Perhaps I did; it is all a blank to me—everything is a blank till the policeman said that my sister was dead and I learned for the first time that the shot I had heard in the Moore house was not the signal of his death, but hers. Had I been myself when at that library door, she added, after a moment of silence, 'I would have rushed in at the sound of that shot and have received my sister's dying breath.'"

"Cora!" The cry was from Mr. Jeffrey, and seemed to be quite involuntary. "In the weeks during which we have been kept from speaking together I have turned all these events over in my mind till I longed for any reason, even that of the grave. But in all my thinking I never attributed this motive to your visit here. Will you forgive me?"

There was a new tone in his voice, a tone which no woman could hear without emotion.

"You had other things to think of," she said, and her lips trembled. Never have I seen on the human face a more beautiful expression than I saw on hers at that moment; nor do I think Mr. Jeffrey had either, for as he looked at his own regard softened almost to tenderness.

"The major had no time for sentimentalities. Turning to Mr. Jeffrey, he said: 'One more question before we send for the letter which you say will give us full insight into your wife's crime. Do you remember what occurred on the bridge at Georgetown just before you came into town that night?'"

He shook his head.

"Did you meet any one there?"
"I do not know."
"Can you remember your state of mind?"

"I was facing the future."
"And what did you see in the future?"

"Death. Death for her and death for me! A crime was on her soul, and she must die; and if she, then myself, I knew no other course. I could not summon the police, point out my bride of a fortnight and, with the declaration that she had been betrayed into killing a man, coldly deliver her up to justice. Neither could I live at her side knowing the guilty secret which parted us, or live anywhere in the world under this same consciousness. Therefore, I meant to kill myself before another sun rose. But she was more deeply stricken with a sense of her own guilt than I realized. When I returned home for the pistol which was to end our common misery I found that she had taken her punishment into her own hands. This strangely affected me, but when I found that, in doing this, she had remembered that I should have to face the world after she was gone and so left a few lines for me to show in explanation of her act my revolt against her received a check, which the reading of her letter only increased. But the lines she thus wrote and left were not true lines. All her heart was mine, and if it was a wicked heart she has atoned."

Life passed, quite overcast. Others among us were overcome, too, but only for a moment. The following remark from the district attorney soon recalled us to the practical aspects of the case: "You have accounted for many facts not hitherto understood. But there is still a very important one which neither yourself nor Miss Tuttle has yet made plain. There was a candle on the scene of crime. It was out when this officer arrived here. There was also one found burning in the upstairs room, aside from the one you profess to have used in your tour of inspection there. Whence came those candles? And did your wife blow out the one in the library herself previous to the shooting, or was it blown out afterward and by other lips?"

"These are questions which, as I have already said, I have no means of answering," repeated Mr. Jeffrey. "The course which brought her here may have led her to supply herself with light, and, hard as it is to conceive, she may even have found nerve to blow out the light before she lifted the pistol to her breast."

The district attorney and the major looked unconvinced, and the latter, turning toward Miss Tuttle, asked if she had any remark to make on the subject.

But she could only repeat Mr. Jeffrey's statement.

"These are questions I cannot answer either. I have said that I stopped at the library door, which means that I saw nothing of what passed within." Here the major asked where Mrs. Jeffrey's letter was to be found. It was Mr. Jeffrey who replied: "Search in my room for a book with an outside cover of paper still on it. You will probably find it on my table. The inner cover is red. Bring that book here. Our secret is hidden in it."

Durbin disappeared on this errand.

CHAPTER XXIV
I MADE my way to the front door, but returned almost immediately.

Drawing the major aside, I whispered a request, which led to a certain small article being passed over to me, after which I sauntered out on the stoop just in time to encounter the spruce but bare figure of Mr. Moore, who had crossed from the opposite side.

"Ah!" said I. "Good morning!" and made him my most deferential bow.

He glared and rudely glared from his place on the further curb. Evidently the police were not in favor with the occupants of the cottage that morning.

"When is this to cease?" he curtly demanded. "When are these early morning trespasses upon an honest citizen's property coming to an end? I wake with a light heart, expecting that my house, which is certainly no much mine as is any man's in Washington, would be handed over this very day for my habitation, when what do I see? One police officer leaving the front door and another sunning himself in the vestibule. How many more of you are within I do not presume to ask. Some half dozen, no doubt, and not one of you smart enough to wind up this matter and have done with it."

"Ah! I don't know about that," I drawled, and looked very wise.

His curiosity was aroused.

"Anything new?" he snapped.

"Possibly," I returned, in a way to exasperate a saint.

"He stepped on to the porch beside me. I was too abstracted to notice. I was engaged in gazing at Rudge."

"Do you know," said I, after an instant of what I meant should be one of uncomfortable suspense on his part, "that I have a greater respect than ever for that animal of yours since learning the very good reason he has for refusing to cross the street?"

"Hah! What's that?" he asked, with a quick look behind him at the watchful brute straining toward him with nose over the gutter.

"He sees farther than we can. His eyes penetrate walls and partitions," I remarked. Then, carelessly and with the calm drawing forth of a folded bit of paper which I held out toward him, I added, "By the way, here is something of yours."

His hand rose instinctively to take it, then dropped.

"I don't know what you mean," he remarked. "You have nothing of mine?"

"No? Then John Judson Moore had another brother." And I thrust the paper back into my pocket.

He followed it with his eye. It was the memorandum I had found in the old book of memoranda plucked from the library shelf with him, and he recognized it for his and saw that I did also. But he failed to show the white feather.

"You are good at ransacking," he observed. "Fifty that it cannot be done to more purpose."

I smiled and made a fresh start. With my hand thrust into my pocket.

I remarked without even so much as a glance at him.

"I fear that you do some injustice to the police. We are not such bad fellows, neither do we waste as much time as you seem to think." And drawing out my hand with the little filigree ball in it, I buried the latter into his coat and round on my finger.

As it flashed under his eye I cast a penetrating look.

He tried to carry the moment off successfully. I will give him so much credit. But it was asking too much of his curiosity and there was no mistaking the eager glitter which lighted his glance as he saw within his reach this article which a moment before he had probably regarded as lost forever.

"For instance," I went on watching him furtively, though quite sure from his very first look that he knew no more now of the secret of this little ball than he knew when he jotted down the memorandum I had just pocketed before his eyes, "a little thing such a little thing as this," I repeated, giving the humble another twist, "may lead to discoveries such as no common search would yield in years. I do not say that it has, but such a thing is possible, you know—who better?"

My nonchalance was too much for him. He surveyed me with covert dislike and dryly observed:

"Your opportunities have exceeded mine, even with my own effects. That petty trinket which you have presumed to flaunt in my face—and of whose value I am the worst judge in the world, since I have never had it in my hand—descended to me with the rest of Mrs. Jeffrey's property. Your conduct, therefore, strikes me in the light of an impertinence, especially as no one could be supposed to have more interest than myself in what has been for many years recognized as a family talisman."

"Ah," I remarked, "you own to the memorandum, then. It was made on the spot, but without the benefit of the talisman."

"I own to nothing!" he snapped. Then, realizing that denial in this regard was fatal, he added more gently: "What do you mean by your memorandum? If you mean that recollection of old time mysteries and their accompanying features with which I once whiled away an idle hour, I own to it, of course. Why shouldn't I? It is only a proof of my curiosity in regard to this old mystery which every member of my family must feel. That curiosity has not been appeased. If it would not be indiscreet on your part, may I now ask if you have found out what that little gold ball of mine which you spoke so freely before my eyes is to be used in connection with?"

"Read the papers," I said. "Read tomorrow's papers. Mr. Moore or better still, tonight's. Perhaps they will inform you."

He was as angry as I had expected him to be, but his face betrayed conclusively that his strongest emotion had been curiosity rather than fear. I felt assured of my ground and turned to re-enter the house. Mr. Moore did not accompany me.

The major was standing in the hall. The others had evidently retreated to the parlor.

"The man opposite knows what he knows," said I. "but this does not include the fact concerning the picture in the southwest chamber or the devilish mechanism."

"You are sure?"
"As positive as one of my luxuries can be. But, major, I am equally positive that he knows more than he should of Mrs. Jeffrey's death. I am even ready to state that in my belief he was in the house when it occurred."

"This he acknowledged this?"
"Not at all."
"Then what is your reason for this belief?"
"They are many."
"Will you state them?"

"Clearly, if you will pardon the presumption. Some of my deductions cannot be new to you. The truth is that I have possibly seen more of this old man than my duty warranted, and I feel quite ready to declare that he knows more of what has taken place in this house than he is ready to avow. I am sure that he has often visited it in secret and knows about a certain broken window as well as we do. I am also sure that he was here on the night of Mrs. Jeffrey's suicide. He was too little surprised when I informed him of what had happened not to have had some secret hiding of it beforehand, even if he had not the testimony of the lighted candle and the book he so hurriedly replaced. Besides, he is not the man to drag himself out at night for so simple a cause as the one with which he endeavored to impose upon us. He knew what we should find in this house."

"Very good. If Mr. Jeffrey's present explanations are true, these deductions of yours are probably correct. But Mr. Moore's denial has been positive. I fear that it will turn out a mere question of veracity."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Not Certain.
"I suppose that picture is one of your choicest works of art?"
"I don't know, for sure," answered Mr. Moore. "You see, mother and the girls have ideas of their own and they won't let me keep the price tags on 'em."—Washington Star

Dr. Henry Chosen Moderator of Presbyterian General Assembly.

MOFFAT IS NOT NOMINATED

Remarkable Incident Marks Organization of Governing Body at Buffalo—Men Selected to Name Candidates Wait Too Long.

Buffalo, May 20.—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church was stampeded for the Rev. J. Addison Henry D. D., of Philadelphia for moderator. Dr. Henry was elected unanimously, almost before the other leading candidates for the position knew what was going on.

Three minutes before Dr. Henry was chosen it was generally believed that the Rev. James D. Moffat, D. D., of Washington and Jefferson college, Washington, Pa., would be elected on the second ballot at least. The other prominent candidate was the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, D. D., of New York. It was while the friends of Dr. Moffat and of Dr. Johnston were preparing to nominate their respective candidates that the stampede for Dr. Henry started and he was elected within 20 minutes.

When nominations for moderator were declared in order the moderator recognized the Rev. Tunis Shamlie, D. D., pastor of the church of the Covenant of Washington. Dr. Hamlin presented a novel proposition: "No, doubt the ideal method of choosing a moderator would be by ballot," he said. "Why should we imitate in this ecclesiastical court the ways of political conventions and deliver a eulogy with each nomination? Any one who is fit for the position of moderator needs no eulogy. Mr. Moderator, my motion is that all nominating speeches be dispensed with."

Dr. Hamlin's Motion Lost.
Dr. Hamlin's motion was put to a vote and while it had a strong support a majority voted against it. It was then decided to allow ten minutes for each nominating speech and five minutes for each seconding speech.

President Francis L. Patton, of Princeton theological seminary nominated J. Addison Henry, D. D., of the Presbyterian of Philadelphia. Dr. Henry's nomination was seconded by the Rev. John F. Carson, D. D., of Brooklyn.

"Are there any more nominations to be brought before us?" inquired Dr. Coyle.
Every one in the big assemblage knew there were two more candidates and when fully a minute passed without any one getting up to make another nominating speech, those in front turned around in wonder. Dr. Moffat, considered the leading candidate, sat in one of the front seats looking somewhat disturbed.

The Rev. J. Ross Stevens had been selected to nominate Dr. Moffat, while the Rev. Henry McClellan, D. D., of Pittsburgh, was to second his nomination. Neither of them sat close to Dr. Moffat.

Further back in the church sat another leading candidate, the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston of New York. Dr. S. C. Dickey of Indianapolis had been selected by Dr. Johnston's friends to make the nomination speech for him while Dr. A. H. Stevenson of New York was to second Dr. Johnston's nomination.

Nominators Waited Too Long.
Yet neither Dr. Stevens nor Dr. Dickey arose. Each wanted to nominate his man last, believing a certain prestige would ensue, so each waited for the other. Meanwhile the assembly continued to wonder at the inaction for it was not until afterward that the situation became generally known. After a wait of a couple of minutes, with no indication of further nominations being made, the Rev. A. Edwin Kelgwin of Newark jumped up and said:

"Mr. Moderator I move you that, the nominations close."

"Second the motion," said some one else.
Many seemed to regard the motion as a joke and it was believed that there would surely stir to action those who were to make further nominations.

Moderator Coyle, however, put the motion, and it was regularly made and seconded. "All in favor say, aye," all opposed say, 'no' said the moderator. A volume of ayes responded first and then came a volume of 'noes.' The moderator decided that the ayes had it and declared the motion carried. The assembly seemed stunned for an instant, as realized that further nominations had been barred.
"I move that the nomination of Dr. Henry be made unanimous," suddenly spoke up Dr. Johnston, one of the candidates who had been shut out by the passing of the previous motion. The motion was carried with a cheer.

HELD FOR RANSOM.

American Citizen Kidnaped by Well Known Moroccan Bandit.

Tangier, Morocco, May 20.—An American citizen, named Perseus, and his stepson, a British subject, have been carried off by the well known bandit Frassoull and his followers and will doubtless be held for a heavy ransom.

The captives were staying at Perseus' summer residence only three miles from Tangier, when the bandits attacked and captured them.

Frassoull, who is already more than 20 hours march from Tangier with his prisoners, has announced that he will impose further conditions for their release. Perseus, who is 70 years old, is in ill health.

It is affirmed that the British and United States governments have begun negotiations with Frassoull and that they are asking the French government to act for the protection of the prisoners.
